To help your loved ones cope with stress, consider the arts are the answer.

Our hearts are with everyone impacted by the horrific mass shootings. If you find your own stress levels overwhelming, you are not alone. The arts can help. When I became Executive Director in 2004, my top priority was finding examples of how the arts benefit our community. I found powerful and profound examples around the country, around the world and throughout Monterey County. Today, neuroscientists and health practitioners are advocating immersion in the arts as a powerful way to manage stress. It can start as simply as taking out your paints or digging out your old guitar from the closet, taking dance lessons or joining a singing group. You can change your life and enrich our community. For more details on how the arts may benefit your health, visit John Hopkins University: https://www.artsandmindlab.org/heart-health-and-the-arts/. You can make a big impact with your monthly investment!

Please join me as a new “Friend 4 Art” – an easy and convenient way to make a small monthly donation that makes a big impact. Today more than ever, we find that the arts are the answer for transforming heartache into healing and trouble into triumph. The Arts Council has made so much progress over the years all over the county. As a mom, graphic designer and local business owner, I became an Arts Council board member a few years ago because I strongly believe the arts are the best way to create safe and vibrant communities for our children and families! Join me as a Friend 4 Art! Choose the level that is best for you and sign up online to donate – arts4mc.org/donate/friends4art
When you join the Arts Council for Monterey County’s Monthly Gift Program, you join a special group of people investing each month to improve the quality of life for everyone in our region through the arts.
